

Overview

The food and drink industry is the UK's largest manufacturing sector with an annual turnover of £70bn. Food represents around 20% of all consumer spending, and 500,000 people are employed by the UK's food manufacturing and processing industries. In this age of consumer choice and awareness, food hygiene and safe food handling is of prime importance to all food retailers and manufacturers, whether they are small independent consultants or large multiple retailers.

The Society of Food Hygiene and Technology (SOFHT) was established in 1979, and is the authoritative voice of food hygiene, food safety and food technology in the UK.

The Society

- Works to get proper recognition for the Science of Food Hygiene and Technology to ensure that everyone who practices it is competent, qualified, and well informed
- Improves standards in the industry by disseminating hygiene information
- Provides substantial unique networking opportunities across retailing, manufacturing, servicing and enforcement through meetings, events and communications
- Encourages communication throughout the food industry
- Plays an active role in assisting the food industry to be aware of current legislation
- Provides an advisory service for its members to help managers, supervisors and food handlers

SOFHT Supporting Company Members

17 leading UK food companies have committed to work at a strategic level with the Society to champion the development of food safety management across the industry. They are:

SOFHT Focus Magazine

Each edition of SOFHT Focus carries the latest news about the industry, along with informed opinion and articles written by leading professionals working in the food sector.

SOFHT Focus Readership

The magazine's electronic circulation of 8,000 includes key players and decision makers with responsibility for hygiene and safe food handling along the entire supply chain, including leading retailers and manufacturers, government agencies, food packers and shippers, therefore an extremely diverse readership.

Advertising

SOFHT Focus provides companies serving the food hygiene sector with an opportunity to influence senior decision makers and those with responsibility for purchasing, running into hundreds of millions of pounds every quarter.

All members will receive at least one hard copy of the latest edition in the post and all non members will receive an electronic copy of SOFHT Focus. The decision to send electronic copies to non members will mean a larger readership and reduced advertising costs.

The quarterly publication will be emailed to all as well as being available on the SOFHT website, so anyone who wants to read it can easily download it.

- Use Focus to communicate a recruitment drive
- Use Focus to contribute articles FREE – a way of informing, contributing to debate, and getting your products “focus” across.
- Use Focus to Advertise – an opportunity to directly influence service industry performers, get your product and/or service known, announce discount options, and bring new products to the attention of the market place
